The PRESIDENT took his seek at sixteen mirries part one o'clock.

THE ADDRESS.

The PRESIDENT said he had the honour to communicate to the House that before the time arrived at which he had perpessed attending on the Governor-General (in order to ascertain at what hour his Excellency would be prepared to receive the Address), the Cure Clerk had received a note from the since de-damp, stating that his Excellency would that day be absent from Sydney, but that he would be happy to receive the deputation to-merrow (Wednesday), at any hour that would suit the convenience of the House. (Hear, hear, from Mr. Johnson.)

QUESTION FOSTPONED.

The question standing in the rame of Mr. Isaacs, as to the intentions of the Government with regard to the introduction of any measure for the reconstruction of the Legislative Connoil during the present season, was postponed until to-merrow (this day).

The ATTOEREY-GENERAL, pursuant to not moved for leave to bring in a bill for taking the Consus in 1861. This bill was similar to the measure which had been introduced during last resion, but which had not been carried through. It was new proposed to presend with it. It was contemplated by the bill that the consus sheuld be taken on the 7th of April, 1861,—the same day as that which the consus under the imperial Act was appointed to take place. The Hones was already familiar with the details of the bill, saw ne objection.

Mr. DEAS THOMSON bid not consider the form of the Act proposed to be see that would be found altogether suited to the circumstance of the colony. The machinery provided by the eld Consus Act would be found, he thought, more calculated for the requirements of this colony.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL thought the suggestions of Mr. Dear Thomson on this till were vages,—so much so that he (Mr. Hargrave) sosrely knew hew to reply to the m.

to that he [Mr. Hargrave] scarely knew how to reply to the m.
Mr. DEAS THOMSON desied that his observations were vague, as the hon, and hearned member implied. He was not opening the bill, if the Gevernment sheeght his mode proposed the better one; it was a master for which they, of course, remained responsible. It was only his (Mr. Deas Thomson's) desire to assist in making the measure as purfect as possible.
The ATTORNEY GENERAL would be very happy to receive assistance from hon, members in perfecting the bill. (Hear, hear.)
The bill was then read a first time, and its second reading ardered for an order of the day to-morrow (this day) week. Bill in meantime to be printed.
This terminating the business, the House adjourned at half-past one ontil I co-morrow (this day) at half-past would wait upon his Excellency with the address at twelve,

THE CHURCH AND SCHOOL LANDS.

Mr. WILSON asked the Secretary for Lands if it is the intention of the Government to introduce a bill, this session, ecclaring the so-called Church and School Lands waste lands of the Crows?

Mr. MORERTSON. is reply, said it was not the intention of the Government to bring in any measure during this session for the purpose indicated in the hon. member's question. It appeared to him that it would be very inexpedient to meddle with this matter until such time as the general land policy of the country was settled. And, as there were to be two sessions of Parliament held during the present year, he thought the bea. member would agree with him that anoth a bill might stead over and be more appropriately introduced next sension.

Mr. MORLARTY lasked the hea. Colevial Secretary, "Wether he has caused any communication to braderesed to the bonds of magistrates at Residence, to prevent the continued incarceration of prisoners in the lock-up at that place, in consequence of the information conveyed to him on Monday last."

Mr. COWPER replied that so far back as August, 1860, this matter had been brought under his notice, and from the toner of a communication made to the Sheriff he was under an impression, from what had taken place, that the magistrates would not have continued to see the Braidwood lock-up for the continued incarceration of prisoners. However, since rescring the information referred to in the hoc. member's question, he had given directions that, for the future, the practice should be stoned in the district of the future, the practice should be discontinued, and that the prisoners should be earled in the district for the faute would not have continued to see the Braidwood forwarded to th

BAPE OF AUSTRALABIA.

In the absence of Mr. Elaka, Mr. PAREES moved for leave to bring in a bill to incorporate the Colemial Bank of Australasis.

The hose gentleman explained that the forms of the House had been complied with.

Leave was granted, and the bill was subsequently brought up, at d read a first time.

Mr. WINDEYME, in pursuance of notice, moved for leave to bring in a bill to extend to criminal trials the provisions contained in the 58th, 58th, and 60th sections of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1857. The bill to desired to have leave to introduce was one of a very simple character, and had passed through the House during the last parliamentary seasion, having only been stopped by the prorgation. Its object was to assimilate the practice of the District Courts in criminal cases to the practice of the Eupreme Court.

Leave was given, the mover and seconder being appointed a committee to bring up a bill. At a subsequent period of the proceedings the bill was brought up and read a first time; the second reading being ordered to stand an order of the day for Tuesday next. Bill in meantime to be printed.

ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Mr. PARKES obtained leave to bring in a bill for the abolition of capital punishment. This was a bill which had already been introduced on two consistons into that House, but from pressure of business had not passed through all the recessary stages. The principle involved was one of the highest importance, and the measure was for that reason entilied to the foliest consideration, both from those who assented to its principle, and from those who did not. He did not purpose to say anything these when the had to say for the second reading ordered to stand an order of the day for Taysday next.

[RON OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

JANUARY STH.—The weather has been favourable here of late, heavy rain, at intervals and a degree of warmth in the atmosphere, which reminds one of that complexion-tanning, temper-trying, fever-catching, liver-inflaming, rupee-getting country on the banks of the Hoogley. But these matters, however hot we may be, are unknown heresboutts, and just now our great disagreement with the weather arises from the heavy see outside having rendered the bar at the mouth of the river dangerous, causing the detention of several vessels, most anxious to make a speedy passage to Sydney. This impediment will soon disappear, and the exhibarating intelligence of a very significant rise in the price of maize receives that acceptable confirmation so comfortably illustrated when a man expects five pounds and receives ten.

At the late election an effort was made to send into price of maize receives that acceptable confirmation so comfortably illustrated when a man expects five pounds and receives ten.

At the late election an effort was made to send into Parliament a gentleman whose local knowledge would have been useful in representing and advancing the most important interests of this district. The attempt failed, but I am confident any measure service—able to this locality will have the attention and support from the gentleman who was chosen by the majority. An obsolete and exploded "Conscript Father," a stupendous spouter, a perfect Niagara of verbosity, has not left behind him, in the House or out of it, any mark of haying benefited his constituents, or anybody else, during a career of some years. The member for the Hastings is the reverse; he never has, and it is hoped never will, like the retired person I have alluded to, flood the House with doses of dictionary-speeches, the poppy influence of which were apparent in their narcotic effects. The greatest benefactors of the age are men of more ideas than words, and the reputation of Mr. Flett for sound sense and practical knowledge affords justifiable hope that what would promote the welfare of his constituents here will not be unattended to by him. A visit to the Maclesy would not be an injudicious investment of a few spare days on his part, and probably it may not be inappropriate to mention that a new punt, on the ferry between Heest and West Kempesy would supply a great want; and his aid in pointing out to the Oversment the desirability of such accemmodation would be very acceptable.

Intermediate the supplement of the supplement the desirability of such accemmodation would be very acceptable.

want; and his aid in pointing out to the Government the desirability of such accommodation would be very acceptable.

Information has reached this place from the Bellinger and Nambuckra, conveying apprehension of danger from the black population in that quarter. Our senior magistrate, Mr. Warne, with his usual promptitude, adopted the necessary course to obtain protection for the residents at the places I have mentioned, by communicating with Captain Scott. The matter in the hands of such an active and vigilant officer, it is most improbable that outrage or violence in the smallest degree will occur. A peep into futurity, on some subjects is not inadmissible. The day which commemorates the foundation of the colony is to give us, from the source to the mouth of the Macleay, a great variety of amusements. Well-contested boat racing is certain; sailing matches are resolved upon, and the turf is not forgotten. Frederickton and its vicinity, where every visitor receives warm hospitality, and sees lovely land, and still more lovely water, are making arrangements to gratify all who go there on that day. This is as it ought to be. A holiday is a day of mirth, and should be observed accordingly. The man who decries generous-hearted merriment is a wolf in sheep's clothing. I would not believe that "a cat stole cream" from the lips of such a person.

Like all other districts, we are anxious about the passing of the Estimates.

I would not believe that "a cat stole cream" from the lips of such a person.

Like all other districts, we are unxious about the passing of the Estimates, and therefore shall be glad to see Parliament at work again. The Ministry have placed a very respectable sum on the Estimates to meet the expenditure necessary for the completion of the New Regland road. This work, when recommenced, will afford much acceptable employment to aome of the many who urgently need occupation;
but, apart from that view of the matter, the road finished and opened for traffic, a material improvement may be looked for in several ways. A profitable market for the produce of the district will be available. The exports and business here must incresse; several branches of trade now dormant will become active and profitable. There is well founded hope of presperity being again on the Maelesy. May it be sown broadcast.

Wednesday, 10th.—The Rainbow arrived to-day, after a longer absence than usual. Her voyage up was rapid, but the bar has an abominable trick of heeping vessels outside the river as thoroughly as it sometimes keeps them inside. The steamer was off the Heads since Bunday hat, but dare not attempt the catrance before to-day. Such delays are a serious inconvenience and loss, and I understand that how to remove the michievous impediment will be a subject of discussion amongst the settlers here before very long. The Rainbow leaves to-morrow.

GLEN QUINN, NAMOI RIVER.

[From Our commotion caused by the cuckeo cry of "free selection" has now canad, and become a term of beaute. It a man is seen drunk and lying on the ground, it is said he has occupied under free selection; if one traveller meets another, where are you going, Jack or Bill, or what ever name he is known by, as the saying goes, I am for free selection. The weather here is fearfully hot just now, but there is plenty of feed and water; in fact it is abundant. The defeat of Mr. Jenkins has distypointed many of his friends and supporters. If that gentleman had been able himself to attend the pelling, the result would have been very different.

A constable from Wee Waa, named Rayfield, having a prisoner in charge named Charley, an aboriginal, for whom a warrant had been issued some twelve months since for an assault with intent on the wife of a shepherd at Cogill Station, arrived at Glen Quinn late in the evening of Thursday last. A secure place being alletted to the constable, in an outbuilding on the premises, the constable (Rayfield) put his prisoner in handcuffs, in order to fasten him by a chain to some weights brought there for the purpose; when in the act of running the chain through the weights to connect them with the handcuffs the blackfellow jumped up suddenly, and sent Rayfield staggering. Charley then bolter was wounded; however, he managed to effect his escape. There is no blame whatever attached to the constable, who is an old and tried man, and an active and sealous public servant. The reason of Rayfield's being all alone was simply this: he happened to be out on other duty, and by the merest chance dropped on this culprit, whose character is of the very worst description. His secape is, therefore the more to be deplored. The constable entertains strong hopes of recapturing his man, and, from his well known tact, I think there is every prospect of his succeeding.

Mr. Cowfer.

Mr. Cowfer moved that Robert Wisdom, Esq., be Chairman of Committees of the whole House during the present Parliament. Mr. Wisdom, he understood, had paid much attention to the forms and practice of Parliament, and he believed if his motion were adopted it would be found that the Assembly had made a good choice.

Mr. Esax seconded the motion. He felt sure Mr. Wisdom would bring to bear on the business abilities that would give perfect astisfaction to the House.

Mr. Hav should not oppose the motion, but there was a novelty in the form of appointment to which he objected. Iffirier to the Chairman had been appointed for the session only; now, for the first time, it was proposed to appoint that officer for the whole duration of Parliament. Many of the new members must necessarily be uninformed of Mr. Wisdom; qualifications, and it might be that they would desire a change after the experience of a session. It would be much more peoper and much more sefe so make the appointment for the session, and he would move an ascendment to that effect.

Mr. Parkers seconded the amendment. If Mr. Wisdom's conduct in the chair gave satisfaction, he could be re-elected at the opening of mother session, if not, a more efficient officer could be chosen, without the painful heccasity of displacing him by resolution. By departing from their former practice, no advantage could be gained, while it might lead to much inconvenience.

Mr. Drekson had no doubt but that Mr. Wisdom's cenduct would give satisfaction; but he was untried, and they ought not to tie their hands by electing for more than one session.

Captain Morentry agreed with Mr. Parkes. There was a wide difference between displacing from office and re-electing to office; and until Mr. Wisdom was tried he would not be disposed to vote for a longer period than one session.

Mr. Werker said the Speaker was elected for the whole Parliament, and he thought there were equally strong reasons for electing the Chairman of Committees for the same period. It would be no amall good if they could thus avoid party condicts at the opening of every session.

Mr. Rydon thought this was an attempt to override the few rights the House had left. No reason whatever had been given for the proposed departure from precedent.

His fellow-citizens will generally sympathise deeply with Mr. Elwoathy, now under the stigma of a Coroner's verdict which has not the shadow of foundation—one which is in the teeth of the evidence offered, and contrary to

We are quite aware that the ordinary instruwe are quite aware that the ordinary instru-ments of law are neither soft-spoken nor gentle. They consider any man who is charged in the light of a criminal. But we must denounce that brutal system which ex-poses men—whatever may be their age, their health, or their antecedents—to risks which may be fatal, and that before any one has a right to consider they have forfeited the respect and confidence of their fellow-men.

We say at once that the deplorable accident out of which this accident arose has left culpability somewhere. Its extent, however, will depend upon many circumstances which have yet to be legally proved. It is shown clearly by the evidence that the driver of the bus had been driving recklessly, and so as to be even warned by one of the passengers outside; and the been driving recklessly, and so as to be even warned by one of the passengers outside; and this is shewn too, by the evidence of Mrs. Morars, who alleges that she was greatly slarmed. The leading horse was blind of one eye, according to the testimony of several witnesses; and constable PARRER alleges that the driver complained that he himself was near-sighted. It is shown also that the bus lamps were not lighted, and that thus all kinds of casualties existed calculated to contribute to an accident. It is, however, particulated their their same of the casualties existed calculated to contribute to an accident. accident. It is, however, perfectly clear that the mound was unfenced, and the probability seems that there was no light near it, and thus seems that there was no light near it, and thus the proper precautions which ought to have been taken were neglected.

It was our wish that the inquiry should lead to the detection, and, if need be, the penal visitation of the culpable parties; but there are other aspects which the case presents. Those who have occasioned the accident are responsible in a civil action. To fix that culpability has a giving a proper process. by a criminal prosecution is an object worth siming at, provided a "responsible party," in the legal sense, can be found, and we regret that the evidence and cross-examination leads us to the inference that the inquiry looked quite as much towards the Civil as the Criminal Court

It appears that Mesers. BLWORTHY and TUCKER are jointly interested in a drain. Mr. WILLIAM CHAMBERS entered into a contract himself and neighbour, to open and repair a drain. As the extent of the work could not be necertained at first, it was agreed to pay CHAMBERS Ss. per day such man employed. CHAMBERS was in no sense a servant, nor was he constantly upon the ground, but came from time to time to see how the work was progressing. The authority to open the ground was addressed to the contractor. The place is described as being in front of Mesers. ELWORTHY and Tucker's, in George-street; and the fencing was completed on three sides when the accident occurred. Mr. Elworthy when the accident occurred. Mr. El.worthy resides out of town, and therefore as he was not responsible, neither could he exercise any actual supervision, over the lighting. We presume the only possible ground upon which any imputatation could be cast upon him is that the work was to be paid for by himself and that the work was to be paid for by himself and neighbour; but how any twelve men with positive evidence that the authority to open the ground was given to CHAMBERS and not to ELWORTHY, recognising him (CHAMBERS) as the contractor, and binding him personally to fence and light the ground, and the evidence tractor, and in no wise the servant of ELWOR-THY-how in the face of these facts they could THY—how in the face of these facts they could bring in a verdict of manslaughter, must remain a mystery to all rational beings. If such a finding be admitted, we should like to know what is the position of all other employers. There is no telling who may be arrested by an insolent constabulary, if men are to be responsible where they have no authority; if the sponsions where they have no authority; if the ferry man authorised by the law to open the ground and fence it is to be held innocent—and the only person guilty the man who has really no right or power to interfere at all.

It is very creditable to CHAMBERS, however, that he has not attempted to evade his share in the business, and he might probably have been in the situation of Mr. Elwormer had he been worth powder and shot. The city police might have prevented this accident had they been alert, or had they been properly instructed. When permissions are granted it would not he too much to see that the conditions are fulfilled. Nearly opposite this office there has been an excavation of some three weeks standing; there has been none or the most feeble defence, and yet nowhere would an accident be more probable. Surely it would not be improper to direct the constabulary to insist upon the precautions required, and to lay informations for their neglect by whoever committed. It is very creditable to CHAMBERS, however,

No one can be more solemnly impressed than we are of the sacredness of human life, and the guilt of wantonly expessing it to danger; but let us at all events get the right men, and ascertain the degree of blame which may attach to the sharers in one common transaction. In this in-stance the blame has not been distributed, but stance the blame has not been distributed, but it has been actually transferred. We do not understand what may be the course of the Coroner in converting a verdict of culpability into manslaughter. No doubt, if the term has the sense of legal guilt, it will admit this rendering, but to the understanding of many jurors it would mean no such thing. They probably thought that Mr. Erworth was in some way recognition not in law, but society for the conlike some of those precious riders which so

Mr. Cowrsn replied. He could not adopt the smendament; he would rather see some other member elected in place of Mr. Wisdom than do so. He would take the sense of the House on his metion.

The House divided, when Mr. Hay's amendment was carried by 25 to 21.

The motion, as so amended, appointing Mr. Wisdom from the session, as the motion of those who was carried by 25 to 21.

The motion, as so amended, appointing Mr. loosely formed, and which they do not suppose concur in them, they are often merely opinions, loosely formed, and which they do not sunpose have any practical result. We have no doubt that the evidence, which we have carefully read—a copy of which has been charged for at the Coroner's Office £5—will be as carefully Coroner's Office £5-will be as carefully examined by the Attorney-General. We direct his attention to the secondary nature of much of this evidence—what Tom said to Dick and Dick reported to Bill. From its examination we are quite clear that a Coroner's Court is a very unsafe one, and that it would be far better for these examinations to take place in some public building, where the light of day would fall upon them. Mr. Elworth, who, if like his brother tradesmen in these times, is ns brother tradesmen in these times, is not prepared to waste money, is yet able to buy the record against him; but it is an additional hardship that a person accused of a crime, without having the slightest notice of suspicion against him, without being protected by a legal adviser against the perversion or suppression of evidence, should be lodged in a cold miserable cell, with no explanation of any facts which might be supposed to bear against him, and with no means of knowbear against him, and with no means of knowing them but at the cost of £5.

Our readers will imagine the condition of an infortunate man, who, having no friends to bail unfortunate man, who, having no friends to bail him, or any means to buy a record of the evidence, of which he otherwise could have no other information, should find himself committed to a county gool, to the custody of men who always think they have to deal with felons, and commonly like least those who protest their innocence. There is no redress, we believe, for this injustice; it is the price which every man is liable to pay for living in a nominally Christian country, and in one where the administration of justice is too often entrusted to ignorance, rashness, and utter insensibility.

MR. JORDAN left for England yesterday in the La Hogue, for the purpose of visiting the agri-cultural districts of the mother country on be-half of the Queensland Government, in the hope that, by explaining the new land law, and especially that part which provides for the re-payment in land of the cost of the passage, many families may be induced to emigrate. To despatch an agent to England for such a purdespatch an agent to England for such a purpose is, undoubtedly, a wise policy in the Government, and will in all probability amply repay the cost it entails. The great want of the country is population. Without that it is useless to have rich lands, or noble harbours, or a beautiful climate; and to draw population some artificial process is necessary. There may be differences of opinion as to the best processes for directing the stream of population to particular places, but there can be none as to the expediency of the thing itself, except among the selfish few who can see in every new comer nothing can see in every new comer nothing but an additional rival in the labour market. The land immigration scheme, which Queensland has adopted has the advantage of making the land pay for immigration before it has been sold, and also of ensuring an alienation of land corresponding in extent to the amount of the imported regulation. extent to the amount of the imported por tion. Its disadvantage is that it is unjusted the resident and native population, or to those who arrive from other countries than England, and that the trafficking in land orders to which it will lead will stimulate the speculative purchasing of land beyond what would otherwise be the case. But no system is quite perfect, and if a balance of advantage is obtained, the attendant evils must be telerated. Mr. JORDAN will probably not be telerated. Mr. Jordan will probably not meet with any enormous or extravagant success. But he may set several families on the move, and they will prepare the way for others to follow them. The necessity of having funds in hand to pay for the passage money will necessarily confine the movement to those whose necessarily confine the movement to those whose frugality had enabled them to save meney enough to take them a journey across the world; but these, though comparatively few in number, will be a most valuable class of immigrants. To the actual labouring classes of the mother country, Mr. Journey has no mission at all, except so Mr. JORDAN has no mission at all, except so Mr. JORDAN has no mission at all, except so far as directly or indirectly he acts as the agent of capitalists. It is useless for him to tell the British peasantly that if they can contrive to travel a distance of about seventeen thousand miles they will be able to get a land order to the value of eightsen pounds, because they cannot possibly perform the conditions, nor if they could would the land order on their arrival be of much value to them, except to sell: for they of much value to them, except to sell ; for they would soon find out that, except to self; for they would soon find out that, except under special circumstances, which they would not at first be likely to light upon, a small patch of wild land would be of no great use to a penniless and inexperienced man, and would even be a disadvantage if it tempted himjaway from the earnings he might have derived from labouring in the service of others. Employers in Queensland will, no doubt, combine to import labour, but then they will receive the corresponding land orders, and will either reimburse themselves by selling them, or will make speculative purchases of land. This system will not be so different from the old-established Wakefield system as from the old-established Wakefield system as may at first sight appear. The difference is in form rather than in aubstance. In both cases the land pays for the importation of the labour, and a proportion is established between the alienation of land and assisted immigration. The chief difference is that in the one case the land is sold before the labour is imported, while in the other the labour is imported before the

Mr. WARTPIELD assumed that if a man bought land he must necessarily want labour, and, therefore, proposed to appropriate part of the nurchase price to the importation of labour, while, still more completely to suit the inclinations of the purchaser, he was allowed to nominate the manner precess whose presence the would nate the very persons whose passage he would like to be paid for out of his money. The Queensland system assumes that if a man arrives in the colony it must be because he wants land, and he, or those who have paid for wants land, and he, or those who have paid for his passage is presented with land scrip ac-cordingly. Both assumptions are partly false, and vitiate the theories based upon them. Speculative purchasers of land have supplied an immigration fund under the old system, without creating any corresponding demand for the labour so introduced; in fact, the very capital that might have employed the labour was locked up in the unproductive land labour was locked up in the unproductive land purchases. Under the Queensland system many labourers will be introduced without thereby creating any natural demand for land. thereby creating any natural demand for inno.

Those who import them want labour not land, inasmuch as they are engaged in grazing pursuits. But, as they will be forced to take land scrip in exchange for their outlay, they must either keep it and employ it in speculative pursuits. thought that Mr. ELWORTHY was in some way responsible, not in law, but socially, for the conduct of CHAMBERS, and their verdiet was like some of those precious riders which so market for what it will fetch; and its price, which, under such circumstances, must neces-sarily be a depreciated one, will depend upon the general demand that may at the time exist for land. The Queensland Government will be released

The Queensland Government will be released from the direct control over the emigration ships, and will escape this expense and responsibility. But this will not be altogether a matter for congratulation. Whatever evils may have attached to the late emigration system, and whatever complaints may have been made as to the selection of persons by the Land and Emigration Commissioners, it must be admitted that immense improvements have been made in all that relates to the health and comfort and all that relates to the health and comfort and all that relates to the health and comfort and morality of emigrants on the voyage; and these improvements have been partly extended, though not to the full extent, to the private passenger ships. Many who have come out in crowded vessels can tell a sad tale of the debasing and contaminating influences of the long voyage, where the idleness, combined with the absence of restraint and the want of authority cave of restraint and the want of authority, gave scope for the exhibition of the bad elements of human nature. In throwing all the emigration into private hands, the Government can only indirectly control the moral management of emigrant ships on the voyage, and care will have to taken as far as possible to see that

THE AMENDED ADDRESS.

"Speak truth, and shame the devil."
The two days' debate in the Council, which has ended in the adoption of an address differing widely from that voted by the more obsequious Assembly, is worth the perusal of all thoughtful and truthful persons. Its immediate practical effect is of course very small, yet it will be valuable, both as an exposition of the true state of the colony, and as a protest against the mistervess testion of the state for party pure abundant room for "plying the nicest art" in the suppressio vivi. And if the Ministerial transactions of the last three months are fraught with covert suspicion as well as with open discredit, has he not his place to comfort him?

The Liencer runs include about 950 ACRES OF PURCHARED LAND, all of it of the very finest quality and available for subdivision hat small farms, either for lease or sale, and from which a very large return might at once be realised. In addition to the inade already purchased, several other bocks have been applied for, the pre-empire runs in the colony.

The stock to be sold with these runs will consist of about 550 MEAD OF CATTLY, more or less, bred from pare, half, and three-parts bred buils, from the CELR-BRATED HENDS OF MESSRS, HAMILTON AND DENNISON, and forming one of the finest herds in the colony.

DENNISON, and forming one of the finest herds in the colony.

Stores, implements, drays, carts, working cattle, beiling plant, &c. to be taken at a valuation.

THE LISMORE STATIONS are so well-known that Mort and Ce. do not consider it necessary to add to the above simple detail, being admitted on all hands to form one of the FINEST CAPTLE PROPERTES IN THE COLONY. Their established fattening qualities, the vast extent of river frontage, and their immediate proximity by water carriage to a shipping port, all entitle them to the consideration of every man connected with squatting, and who may be desirous either af establishing himself, or extending his operations. There is a most advantageous market on the spet for the supply of the Fairfield gild-fields—all of which contribute to make the proprietor of Lismore comparatively independent of other markets. The great extent and value of the Lised of the markets. The great extent and value of the Lismore comparatively independent of other markets. But now it seems, when we are apopelessly in debt, and when we had to cur cost that we must waik before we am run, and that it is not possible for a new country, with a thin and scattered population by no means wealthy, to dopt the apjendid roads and engineering improvements of the richest country, and most advanced in practical sciences on the face of the sartis.

Chown Lanns of Canada.—The report of the Commissioners of the Crown Lands of Canada for the last year serves again to remind us of the vast territorial catent of the colony, and the yet immense undeveloped resources which it possesses. Of the 212,000,000 acres in Canada which are drained by the St. Lawrence and its tributaries, there are not at present one fifth which have been brought into cultivation. Each successive year, though it adds its hundreds and thousands of acres to the quantity disposed of, still leaves the great bulk untouched, and the absorption at the rate of a million of acres every year would require two centuries before the public lands of Canada were fully occupied. A large portion of the land of the colony, like that of every other country, is ill-adapted for cultivation; but leaving a wide margin for the waste and uncultivable tracts, it will require, at the present rate of progress, more than 200 years to settle and cultivate the lands yet undisposed of. During the last year, the quantity sold was but 401,000 acres, and the average selling price was only a trifle over a dollar an acre, the total amount realised by sales being 475,000 dollars.—Canadian News.

Absinting.—Neither war, nor famine, nor pestilence, are so destructive in their effects as that terrible decoction of wormwood. Like smoking, it is an acquired taste, and like most pernicious habits of its class, the most difficult to rid oneself of when fairly acquired. But give it tether, and there is no constitution, however strong, that it will not break up in time. I am sorry to say that some of the Arabs, now and then, contrary to their stringent laws, do not refuse to taste it.
